ALLENDALE LAND COMPANY NEW LOCAL CORPORATION HANDLING MONTANA LAND

The offerings of the Allendale land, grain and sugar beet land to Company, near Drummond, Montana, are rare opportunities for the young man who would launch out in the cattle business, or who has a desire to get some choice land, with an abundance of water, for the raising of beets, wheat oats and hay.

This tract is reputed to be the finest tract of high grade, irrigated, aled and ranched, for a number of years much the same way that the famous Promontory Curlew Land Company tract was operated, that is, handled by a single ownership and operated from one headquarters.

It is the intention of the present ownership to sell the tract in farms and ranches of from 160 to 300 acres each. Already a number of Cache County boys have purchased land in this vicinity, and without an exception they pronounce the land first class, physical conditions good, and opportunities unbounded.

The late Congressman Joseph Howell purchased the tract, organized the company, and was its president when he died. The success he and his associates have achieved in the handling of the mammoth Promontory Curlew tract is evidence that the management of this tract knows what they are doing, and that the company is capable of carrying out any contract which it may make. Land purchasers are perfectly secure in dealing with this company. It is thoroughly reliable, and its word may be looked upon as good as its bond. Herschel Bullen, present manager of the Promontory Curlew Land Company, is Vice President; William M. Howell is Secretary and H. M. Hatch, President of Thatcher Brothers Banking Company, is Treasurer. These gentlemen with John H. Bankhead, Louis T. Cannon, Luther M. Howell and Preston D. Richards constitute the Board of Directors.

The land is offered at reasonable prices and on easy terms. Write the Allendale Land Company, Logan, Utah, for detailed information.

THE MEN'S SHOP

The Men's Shop, the home of the famous Hart Schaffner & Marx men's clothing, is offering a complete line of all wool suits and overcoats, at prices a little higher than formerly, like all prices these days, but low enough to give values that speak for savings and economy. And further a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit means a fit that makes a fellow feel like he is well dressed the moment he gets into it. It looks good, feels good, and best of all it is Good. A complete line of shirts and underwear, grips and suit cases, ties, handkerchiefs, and many other articles for suggestive Christmas presents for men and boys, are in stock at popular prices. Under the management of Mr. Lawrence Smith this popular clothing store is enjoying a large business, and offers to the public bargains that once being inspected will not be passed up.

ALFRED G. PICOT

Alfred G. Picot, dealer in Real Estate, Fire and Life Insurance, Abstracts and Farm Loans, is one of our successful business men that was not too busy, and did not have too much business to keep him out of the service of Uncle Sam. A young man, inheriting a large fortune from his father, he might have claimed exemption on many counts, but he did not do so. When the call came he said "I am ready," as a result of which he has been a Camp Lewis for many months. Had not the war ended he would, by this time, be ready to go overseas. Now that the hostilities are over Mr. Picot will no doubt be permitted to return home and take up the threads of his business again. During his absence his business is being cared for by Mr. John H. Bankhead.

THATCHER CLOTHING COMPANY

Thatcher Clothing Company has for a number of years been a favorite outfitting place for the best dressers of the city and county, and under the able management of the late Joseph J. Bithell and Jno. Wilson it has prospered beyond the fondest hope of its stockholders. Business circles as well as this firm lost a valuable man in the death of Mr. Bithell, but Mr. Wilson's keen grasp of the business makes it possible for the concern to go along in its regular way. With a full line of men and boys wear on hand at all times this company is always ready to meet the demands of a large patronage, always giving the best in the market for the money. Conveniently located it is enjoying a flourishing holiday trade.
